WHAT BILL ANTHONY SAID.

"I did not discredit the Anthony story," said Captain Signee. "On the contrary, I told it over again and paid a tribute to the gallantry which Anthony displayed. It was a brave action, and all the more admirable because there was nothing dramatic about it, no self-consciousness, nothing but the plain, matter-of-fact performance of what Anthony considered to be the simple duty of an ordinary duty."

"He might have been excused if he had jumped overboard instead of coming to report to me. To get to me he had to grope his way through a long passage way as black as night, not knowing when he raised his foot where it would come down. When he entered my cabin I was six feet away from him, but he had to grope his way about and find me. He did not, therefore, raise his hand in salute and make the dramatic report with which he has been credited. On the contrary, he ran into me, and I said, 'Who's that?' Neither of us could see the other, of course. He said, in a matter of fact way, 'It's Anthony, the orderly. I beg your pardon, sir, for running into you. The ship has been blown up, and is sinking.'"

"There were no heroics, no postulation, and no salute, and no 'I have the honor to report.' It seemed to me a funny thing as it was. Enthusiasm can carry a man through a great deal, but Anthony's groping his way through that long passage on a sinking ship, with no idea that he was doing anything but the performance of an ordinary duty, was a better thing than a dramatic action performed under the influence of enthusiasm. I replied, 'Very good. Go back, and I will follow you.'"

"That was all there was of it. Mrs. Anthony afterward asked me if her husband had said what he was quoted as saying. I replied, 'He did not say that he had the honor to report, and you have the better reason to be proud of him for it, and I told her why, as I have just told you.'—New York Times.

Mines and Minerals of Arizona

The public is now furnishing to its readers some most interesting mining letters from the various districts in the territory, a service it proposes to not only maintain but increase as opportunity offers. The second letter from "Hualapai," a Mohave county correspondent, is published in this issue and is brimful of mining news. Mohave county is now the scene of some big mining operations and Hualapai has an eye on them.

Dr. J. M. Ford and Col. Wm. Christy returned yesterday from Hermosillo, Mex., where the organization of the Campana Minera de la Cieneguilla was perfected by them and others. This is a company organized under the laws of Mexico and its purpose is to operate mines in the Sahuaripa district of Sonora. The corporation shows this strong personnel: J. M. Ford, president; J. J. Pesqueira, vice president; J. Smith, cashier of the Banco de Sonora, secretary; Geo. Beebe, general manager. The members of the board of directors are Fernando Mendez, auditor of the state of Sonora; Col. Wm. Christy of Phoenix; Judge Wm. H. Barnes of Tucson; J. J. Pesqueira, a licenciado of the Mexican government; J. M. Ford of Phoenix.

G. W. Stokes, who is in charge of the Phoenix mine, is at the Hotel Adams. To a reporter for The Republican he said yesterday that work at the mine was being prosecuted vigorously and that all indications at the present are most favorable. He said the mine had been shut down for the time being simply because of a matter of economy and good business judgment. The Phoenix is well known here and it is no secret that its workings are not deep. But there is every reason to believe that when depth is attained a big and rich ore body will be in evidence. This is the season of the year in which water and wood are scarce in that locality. The ore in the present workings will keep, and so will the wood, whatever amount is accumulated, until the time of year arrives when the ores may be reduced at a minimum of expense. It costs as much to keep a mill fire in idleness as it does to keep the same force busy in the policy of the Mr. Stokes, and he therefore thinks it part of wisdom to allow the ore to accumulate. The object of the water and milling season will be secured. Meanwhile all possible work will be done in the development of the mine. To this end he has started a new shaft farther up the hill, which he proposes to sink to the depth of 500 feet. Underground surveys have been made and a tunnel from the main working tunnel is being run, to connect with the new shaft referred to above, at the 110 foot level. The shaft for the first hundred feet will be 7x7. At the 110 foot level it will be enlarged to a double compartment working shaft 8x12 feet and a hoist will be placed at that station. The first pyrites found in the mine were encountered recently in this new tunnel and the indication considered a favorable one. The object of the company is seemingly to demonstrate that the Phoenix is the making of a mine that will go down. The management is looking no sleep over the fact that it is business economy to shut the mill down when it cannot be run at a minimum of expense.

MORAVE COUNTY MINES

Several Sales Reported and Lots of Development Work.

Kingman, Ariz., June 24.—(Special Correspondence of The Republican.)—Perhaps the readers of The Republican would like to hear something of the mining work in Mohave. Anyway, when a people have a good thing and they know it, they generally find a way in talking, writing and signing of it, and this is the state of mind of Mohaveans in today. We have, for a long time, realized that we were in the midst of a great mineral belt, with a wonderful future ahead for us and are pleased to state that recent developments have convinced capitalists as well of the fact, and they are taking hold of a number of our properties with a will. In a letter from this point some time ago to The Republican special mention was made of the Gold Road district and Ollie Outman camp. Some twenty-six miles west of Kingman, it was predicted then, and not amiss, that this section of our country would soon be heard from again and with pleasing results. Following developments have brought forth realizations far beyond our most fond expectations.

The Gold Road company has been steadily progressing in the development of its properties, the Gold Road, the Billy Bryan, the Lion and others in the group. The main shaft on the Gold Road is now down to a depth of 140 feet. When 100 feet was reached drifts were started each way along the ledge and are still being pushed ahead in a fine body of high grade, uniform free milling ore, without the sight of either wall. At the 100 foot level a crosscut was also run in twelve feet, all in good ore, and the wall was not reached. The shaft below the one hundred foot level is in ore all the way and of increasing value. Work is also being pushed on all the other claims of this company and splendid ore is in sight everywhere. The writer had the pleasure today of talking with the superintendent of these mines, Mr. Eli Hilly, who says that he has been in all the leading camps of Arizona, and has never before seen a property carrying such uniform values; that if a man were blindfolded and put into the mine to take a sample of the ore, he would get the same results as the best pick-dump samples would show taken by an expert with eyes open. Mr. Hilly says that developments so far show in sight in this group fully a quarter of a million dollars. To outsiders the subject of water for mining purposes, in Arizona has appeared a serious one, but I am assured that there is ample water within a mile and a half of these mines to operate a hundred ton plant. A large gasoline hoist was loaded at this place yesterday for the Gold Road mines and prospecting operations on a large scale will be carried on. With all this showing, it is strange to say none of the stock of this company is for sale as is usually the case with stock concerns. They have a good thing and they know it and are willing to keep it.

And this is not all that can be said to the credit of the Gold Road district. Today we have in Kingman the owners of the Tom Reed property and Ben Harrison and the Ollie Outman group, to-wit: Eli Hilly, Ira W. Hawkins, Walter Hawkins and J. B. Anderson, who are executing their deed of the above property to Mr. George Kistlingbury, a representative of Captain Delamar of Nevada fame. This deal is genuine and the consideration is $75,000. The writer knows whereof he speaks. Payments are divided up into installments covering a reasonable time, but active operations will be started up at once on the property. This is a very promising group of mines. On the Tom Reed present developments show a solid body of ore 25 feet wide, carrying splendid values in free milling gold. The Ben Harrison is on the same ledge and of equal importance.

Listen to the further tidings from that section: Frank L. Smith, George W. Koster, Harvey Hubbs and Ewing and Heimrod are in our town this day making a transfer of the Treadwell group to eastern capitalists. They were summoned by wire from the east to gather here for this purpose and have received their first payment on this property and are wearing pleasant smiles and receiving congratulations of their Kingman friends. Some time ago a bond was given on this property and developments in a quiet way have been going on ever since, and being favorable, terminated in the first payment today. The Treadwell group carries the highest values in the district, and the future of the same is looked forward to with great expectations. Soon the hum of the quartz mills, the fires in the forges and the merry songs of hundreds of miner boys will make known to the world that the long stillness in this district has given way to active industry and solid property; where but a short time ago nothing could be seen or heard but the lonely howling of the owl and the wild coyote.

We will keep you posted from time to time as developments progress in the Gold Road and Ollie Outman section.

Before concluding I must not neglect to say something of the operations going on in another section of our county. In July of last year Henry S. Mackay (pronounced Mack), of Denver, paid our county a visit in pursuit of mines. The writer conversed with him generally on the subject of our mineral possibilities and he became so interested that he examined some of our properties. His impressions were so favorable that he returned last January, and purchased the Golden Gem mine of T. L. Ayres, at Cerbat, making a substantial cash payment. Following this deal he bought the C. O. D. Mine, and the Prince George, on Stockton Hill range, and the Tubb mine near the Golden Gem. Each of these properties have fine records as producers, the C. O. D. having produced over a million of dollars from workings to a depth of only 450 feet and without crosscutting the vein. From the Golden Gem T. L. Ayres, former owner, took out $172,000 with a horse whim and the old buckskin horse is still alive and able to kick up his heels, shipping the ore to a Pueblo smelter for treatment. Mr. Ayres worked the Gem to a depth of only 200 feet and left in sight on the dumps and in the mine a fortune of $500,000. He scarcely realized this fact then, but rejoices in the fact that there is something left for his successor in ownership, for he had made his stake and was willing to let loops. Mr. Mackay's keen eye was not slow in seeing a great future for the Gem. The Prince George is a wonderfully rich silver property from which, in the short space of 90 days $200,000 was taken out a few years ago, and by a very primitive manner of mining. Since then the property has been idle owing to the Tubb mine is one of the largest silver mines in this section, being 80 feet wide in solid ore of paying values, at a depth of 150 feet. With development and modern means of treatment the Tubb mine will be among Arizona's largest producers.

Mr. Mackay is now giving his most active attention to the C. O. D. mine, and has a good force of men at work, straightening up and widening the main shaft and sinking and running levels on the ore strata. He is counteracting good bodies of ore in the old workings. The ledge in the C. O. D. is forty feet wide, but no attempt at crosscutting it was ever made by the former operators, satisfying themselves by following only one of the several ore ledges between the walls. From Mr. Mackay's extensive mining experience elsewhere he readily saw great possibilities in the C. O. D. by properly crosscutting the same. As a temporary experiment he ran a crosscut from the 200 foot level and had not gone but a few feet until he encountered a new body of ore, twelve feet wide, carrying on an average 81 ounces in silver and a good milling value in gold. This was something the former operators had never dreamed of. Mr. Mackay's opinion is that he is quite likely to strike several other such ore bodies when the mine is crosscut. There is now on this property a thirty ton capacity mill and it is kept busy grinding the ore. The outlook is favorable that Mackay and associates are getting material on the ground to erect a strictly up-to-date mill of fifty tons capacity to treat the C. O. D. ores, and in a very short time it will be completed and in operation. He has started a force of men to work on the Prince George and informs us that within the next sixty days he will have the Gem and Tubb mines running in full blast. These are not the only good mines in the Cerbat range, but there are a great number of others with splendid past records as producers and can be had at reasonable figures. This is the most favorable field for mining investments.

HUALAPAI.

A short time ago a statement was published that the Copper Queen company at Bisbee, Ariz. was turning out a billion every twenty-four hours at a value of $40,000. We took mental ex-caption to the statement, believing it to be an exaggerated one, but some information, which has been since communicated to us leads us to believe that the statement was quite within the facts. Our informant states that the Copper Queen is shipping from four to five carloads of bullion a day from its mines at Bisbee, equal to about 200,000 pounds of copper a day. The bullion carries some gold, not so much as the copper bullion shipped from the Verde district, but some, nevertheless, the value of which can only be guessed at. But besides whatever gold the Copper Queen bullion carries, it is well known that it carries high silver values. These values added to the value of the 200,000 pounds of copper would give a value of nearly, if not quite, $40,000 a day, or a gross value of $14,400,000 a year. This is quite as much, if not more, than the value of the United Verde's output, and so far as value is concerned, quite as much as that of any of Montana's producers.—Los Angeles Mining Review.

LARGEST GOLD DREDGE.

The Pacific Coast Miner of San Francisco says: "The largest gold dredge in California began operations on the 15th inst. in the Oroville, Butte county field. It is the first of five similar ones ordered from the Hilsdon Iron works by the Boston and Oroville Gold Dredging company. The hull is 86 feet long and the buckets of five cubic feet capacity will reach 35 feet below the water surface."

MINING NOTES.

The New York chamber of mines is a new institution in the metropolis which has secured rooms in Park Row building, New York, where it is proposed to make a display of minerals for the benefit of miners, and also to keep on file accurate statistical information regarding mines and mining stocks, which will gradually result in a permanent mining exhibit and exchange for trading in mines and stocks and a general rendezvous and headquarters for mining men visiting that city, where they may receive their mail and transact business in connection with mining property. It is also proposed to publish an annual directory of all interests registered with the chamber, and a reference library and reading room will be established as soon as practicable. If properly conducted, this exhibit will be a valuable aid to the mining interests of the country.—Ores and Metals.
